Text:

Galatians 1:6-12

Questions: Nathan Athineos

This week's sermon focused on the simplicity and the sufficiency of the Gospel. The Gospel is simple and can be summarized just by looking at 1 Corinthians 15:3-4. The Gospel is also sufficient for all things (2 Timothy 3:16-17). The passage this week gives us 3 things to remember due to the Gospel's simplicity and sufficiency; Any addition to the Gospel is a desertion of it, anyone who distorts the Gospel incurs God's judgement, and the Gospel did not originate with man but with God.

1. Verses 6-7 make it clear that there is no Gospel other than what is written in the Bible, and the requirements for entering God's family are clearly stated in Romans 10:9-13. As humans, we often have a desire to increase our participation in that salvation and this can result in additions to the Gospel. What additional requirements do you sometimes place on yourself or others, maybe without realizing it? How should we treat other denominations who may have differing opinions on scripture?
2. What is your gut reaction when you hear "The Gospel is simple"? How can remembering the simplicity of the Gospel affect the way we treat and speak to others?
3. Ted challenged us to think about if we truly believe the Gospel is sufficient for everyday and every situation in your life. Is it hard or easy for you to use scripture in ALL aspects of life and know that it is truly sufficient? To encourage one another, share with your group ways you have used the Gospel as a daily guidance.

As we are in February, we are praying as a Church along with Paul. Read Romans 15:5-6 and Romans 15:13. Take some time to pray together for unity, joy, peace, and power as believers each other, our Church, and the global Church
