

Give us this day our daily bread

Our father, we thank You for the freedom we have to hear Your word. Thank you for the fresh bread that You have prepared for us today and we pray that You grant us the desire to seek after it. May it nourish our souls and fall upon good ground, not being hearers only, but doers of Your word, to have good success. We depend on You to supply our daily needs and Your word sustains us. For, we desire Your word more than gold and it is sweeter than honey. Your laws are perfect and we ask that it convert our souls. Let it be a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path, guiding our thoughts, actions and plans. May we speak it boldly in the atmosphere unashamedly quenching all the fiery darts of the wicked. For your word is a two-edged sword in our hand and is alive and active; full of power. Let it penetrate us, to complete us and may it expose and judge every thought and intention of the heart; making it obey Christ. Thank You for Your words of life that gives us instructions on a daily basis; may we be fully transformed by it's application and make us a light to the lost of our city. Let us gladly share the good news of Your word today so that the gospel would not be hid from them that are lost. In Jesus name.

Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors

Lord, thank You that through the blood of Your cross You possess the power to forgive sin. We confess that we are in constant need of Your forgiveness daily. We acknowledge that receipt of Your forgiveness is totally depended on our willingness to forgive others. Consequently, we search our hearts diligently for grudges, decent, and unforgiveness held against others and ourselves. We pray for those that may have despitefully use us and ask that Your unmerited favor rest upon them. We ask that any sin committed against us be forgiven them and not held to their charge. Wipe their slate clean and release them from penalty; we forgive all offenses by the help of the Lord in Jesus name. We ask You for the freedom to release ourselves from any wrongs committed against others, lifting the shame knowing there is now no condemnation to those which are in Christ Jesus. We repent for the wrong actions we have committed against others and we receive Your forgiveness now. Help us to love one another continually and treat others like how we would like to be treated, knowing that the world will know us by this type of love for we desire to win them. In Jesus name.

Amen!
