Genesis 15:4-6

Your very own son shall be your heir

Genesis 17:15-21

I will give you a son through Sarah

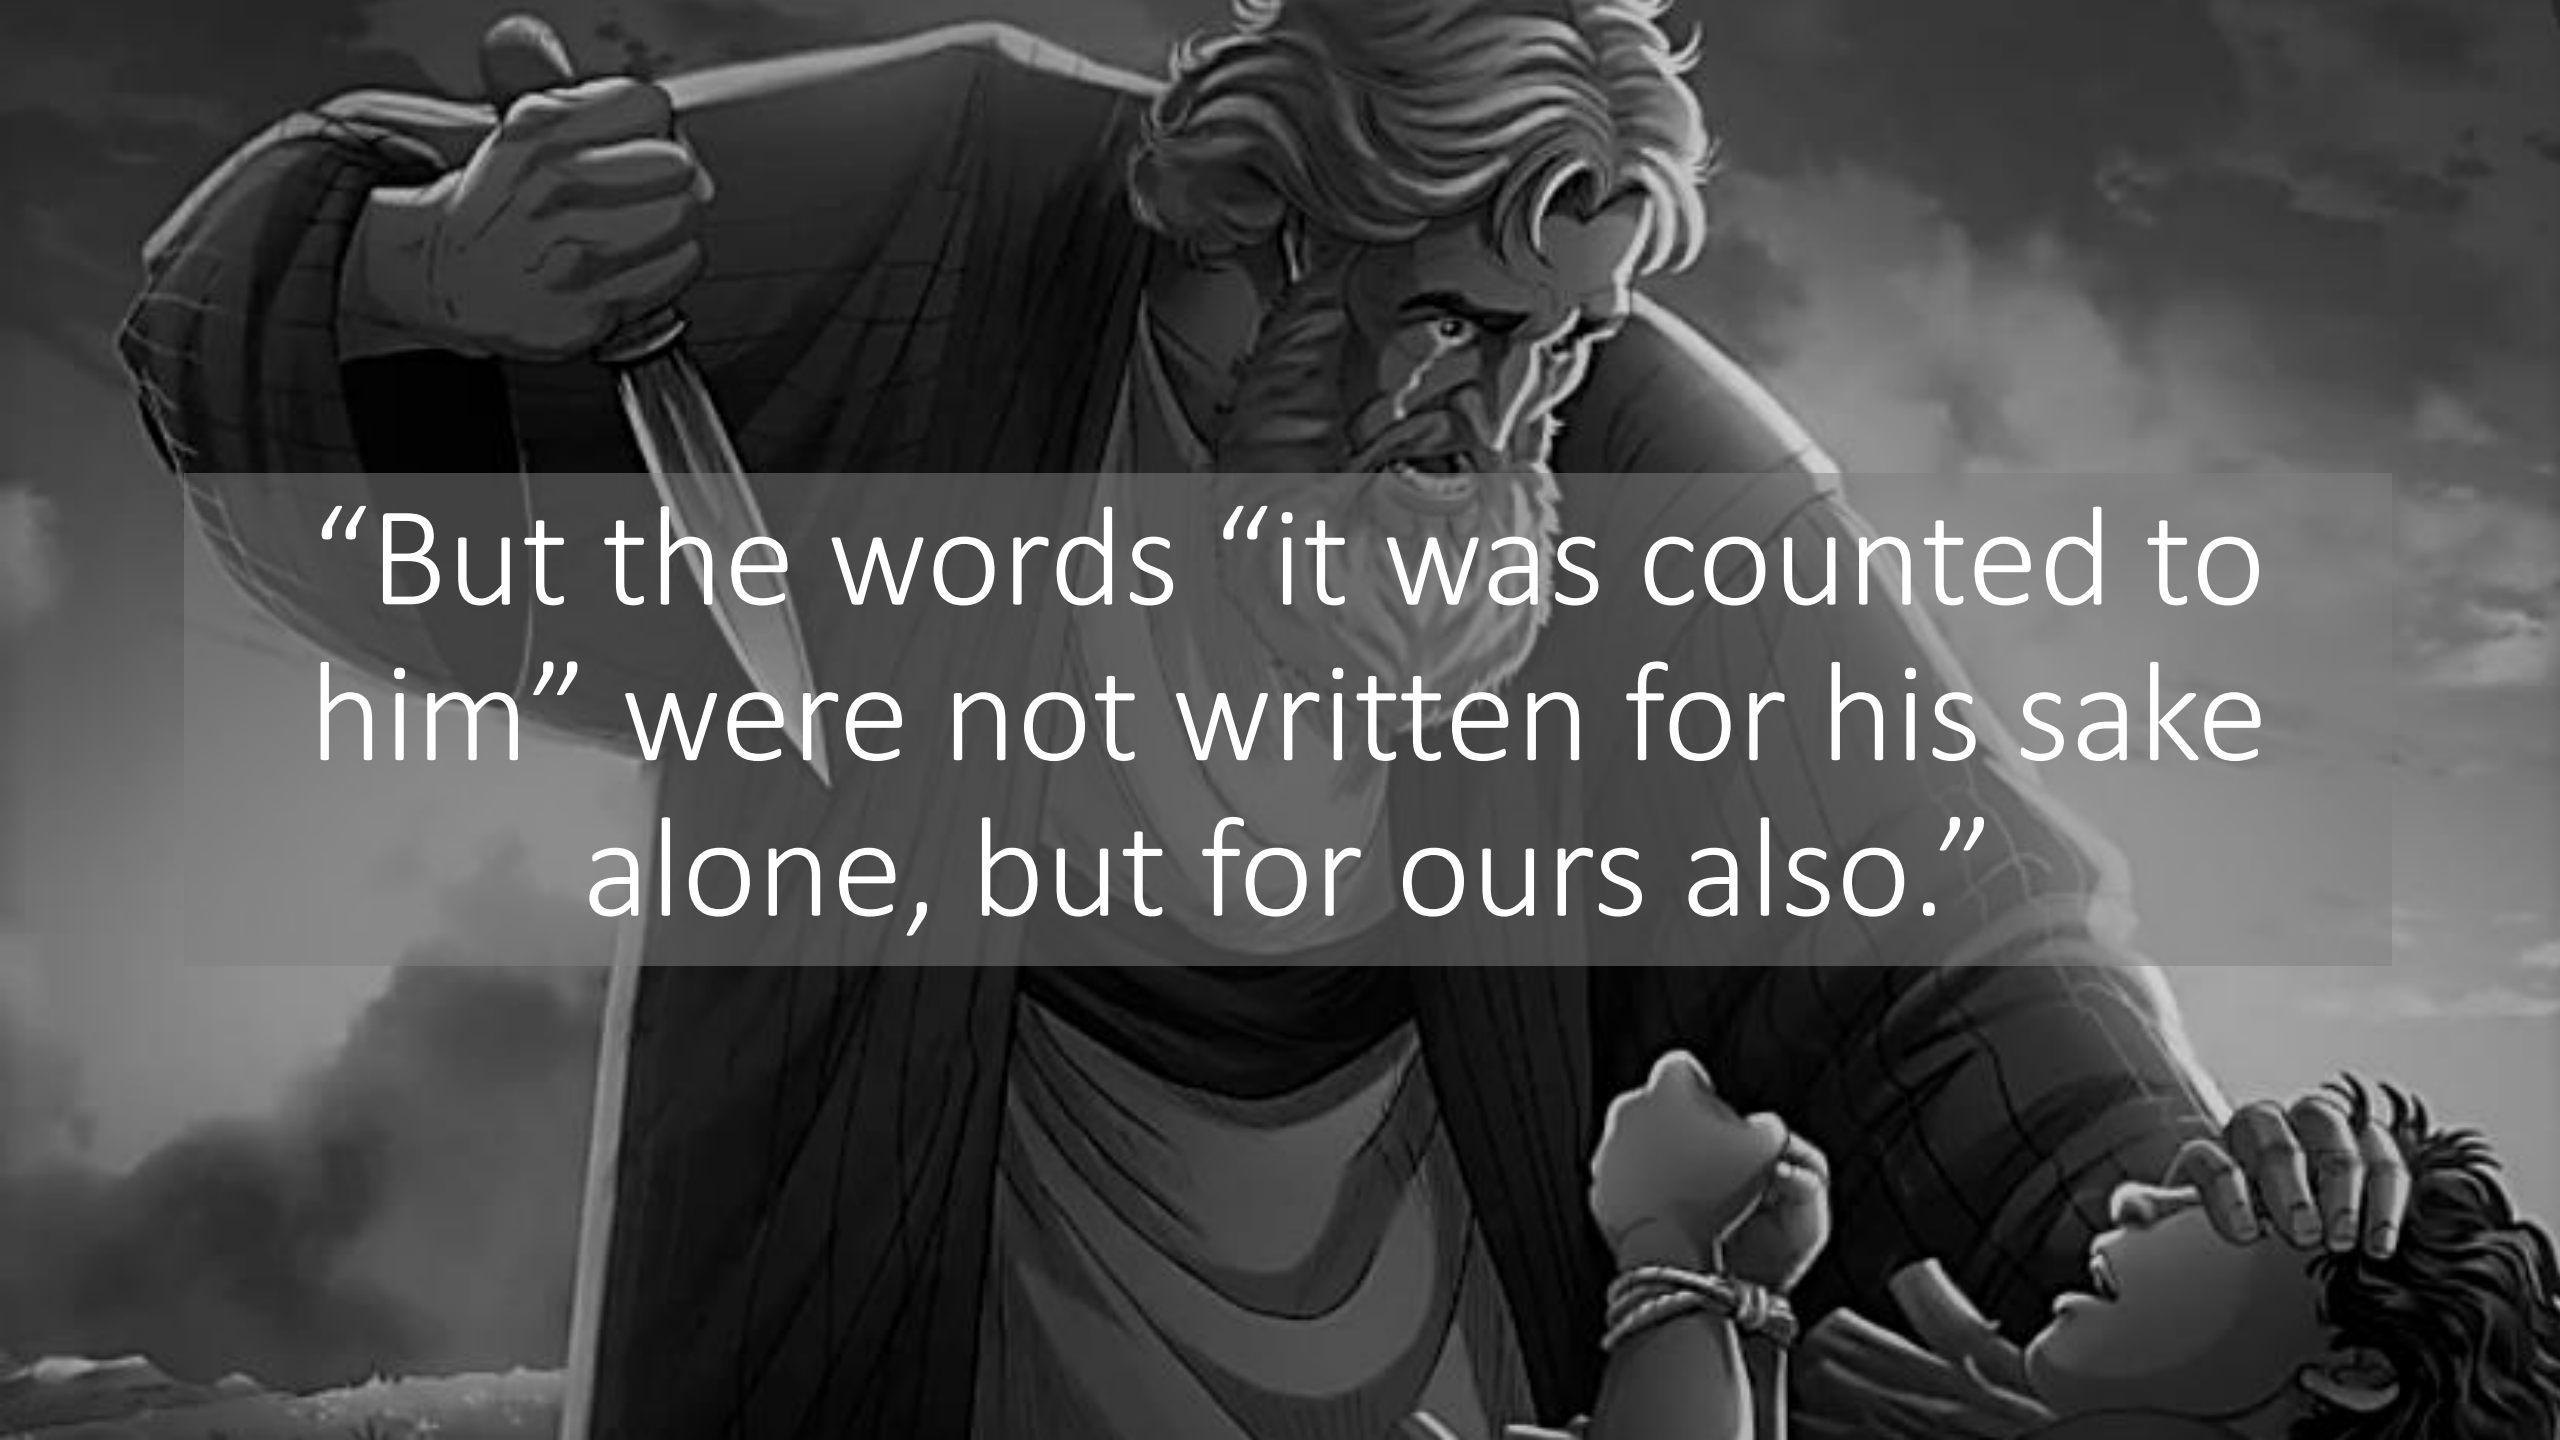

Why does all this matter?

1. It was the content of the promises that Abraham believed.
2. That belief or faith is what caused God to count Abraham as righteous.
3. That Righteousness doesn't just give him a temporary inheritance.
4. Most importantly, this is not just about Abraham.

A black and white illustration depicting a scene of conflict or capture. A man with a long, flowing beard and wild hair, wearing a dark, heavy robe, stands over a woman. He holds a sword in his right hand, pointing it towards the woman. The woman is lying on the ground, her hands bound with ropes. She looks up at the man with a distressed expression. The background shows a cloudy sky and a dark, rocky landscape.

3. Who are Abraham's Offspring?

“But the words “it was counted to him” were not written for his sake alone, but for ours also.”
