
HAEWON YOO

I am a mother, wife, teacher, art lover, and Christian. I am shy and somewhat insecure, but God has been using me to raise a child to be a decent human being, support my husband to remind him he is still human, and teach students to appreciate life through the lens of art.

I don't create art anymore, but I talk about art to the public and bring it to their attention. I occasionally write about art and life, too. 2021 is my 13th year of teaching art, 6th year being a mother, 16th year of my marriage, and 40th year of experiencing blessings from God.

DANIEL MOON

I am a Christ follower, husband to the amazing Diane Moon, dod-dad to the sweetest Golden Retriever Cooper, and never-ending problem solver for my family. I try to be the jack of all trades and find practical solutions and efficient methodologies for all of life's issues, generally through lots of trial and LOTS of error!

I am not a Finance major nor does my profession have anything to do with finances (I'm actually an engineer!). But I do enjoy practical discussions, especially the ones that are generally "uncomfortable" because those topics tend to be the ones I (and others) can learn the most from. I hope to have an open, educational, and Christ-focused discussion with everyone involving all things Finance!

KEVIN TSUI

I am a physician with training in internal medicine with a subspecialty in pulmonary/critical care with a focus on lung transplantation. I studied at New Jersey Medical School and did both my residency and fellowship at Washington University in St Louis, and currently am working at the University of Chicago.

Outside of work, I am a husband, a dog dad, and you've probably seen me taking photos/videos on Sundays for creative ministry. By God's grace I became a believer later in life and am blessed to call Hebron home.
