

Day 12: More To Come

Philippians 2:7 “...he made himself nothing by taking on the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness...

Jesus's birth reminds us of another important truth. The Apostle Paul writes this passage in Philippians 2 that touches on the eternality of Christ and how he left the realm of heaven to come to here.

After he grew up and began preaching, he taught with certainty about the world to come. He would teach about things seen and heard in heaven, preaching about being prepared for that ultimate kingdom.

He mentioned the mansions awaiting us as well as the encouragement of a place for us that is being prepared by Christ.

He left this place of glory and took on the nature of a servant by becoming a human being. That action reminds us that while we may live here in the physical realm now, we are created for two worlds, this one and one to come.

Just as surely as we inhabit this world now, there is another one to come that we will have a place in as well. Jesus's birth is proof of that.
