The Message—Notes

INTIMACY IS HARD

O God, You are my God; I earnestly search for You. My soul thirsts for You; my whole body longs for You in this parched and weary land where there is no water. I have seen You in Your sanctuary and gazed upon Your power and glory. Your unfailing love is better than life itself; how I praise You! ~ Psalms 63:1-3 (NLT)

The writer of this Psalm had an intimate relationship with God. He didn't just know about God, he knew God. He had experienced God in such a powerful way that he felt God's love is better than life itself. That's an amazing statement.

We repeat the words of this and other Psalms, and some of us may even post memes on social media that quote some of our favorites. Maybe we sing along when a praise song we like comes up on Sunday morning. But do we really have an intimacy with God that causes our hearts to feel what the psalmist felt?

Intimacy is hard because it requires faith, and faith can only thrive when we actually live it out. The same is true in our relationships with other people. We have to believe that they care enough about us that if we open ourselves up to them, they won't betray our trust and hurt us.

The Bible tells us that God want's what is best for us, but sometimes the only way to get there is through some hard stuff. Many people feel like God has abandoned them when the hard times come. But in truth, He's saying, Will you follow Me through this so we can experience something amazing on the other side?

Do you want TRUE intimacy with God, enough to trust Him wherever He leads you?

Love y'all,
Pastor Larry
