MORNING PRAYER

Mighty God, we thank You for the many people throughout the ages who have followed the way of Jesus joyfully and faithfully:

So many men and women who have offered up their very lives, so that the Gospel message may become real.

O God, we thank You for those who pursued the way, the truth, and the life found in Christ, our Lord,

Who, even in times of great difficulty, stayed the course.

We are grateful for the many who, in a world full of animosity and indifference, kindled kindness and love;

There are others who, in moments of despair, demonstrated a peace that passes all understanding.

Gracious God, we are so thankful for what these faithful servants have passed on to us:

That it is by giving we receive;

It is by becoming weak we shall be strong;

It is by loving others that divine love shall be known;

It is by offering ourselves that Your kingdom shall unfold;

It is by dying that we shall inherit life everlasting.

As Your Word states, we rejoice in the cloud around us of faithful witnesses.

Parents, siblings, grandparents, neighbors, teachers, friends, and sometimes someone whose name we cannot remember.

The witness and example of so many have given us strength and courage for our own journeys of life.

And Lord we pray that we may be that person for others today.
