

Main Point

- Just as we see in Colossians 4:2, we ought to be steadfast in prayer.
 - It is very important to invest in and develop deep friendships with the believers God has placed around us so that we can mutually encourage one another.
 - Paul only spent a short time with the churches he ministered to, but he still formed deep and meaningful relationships. He did not allow the fear of eventually leaving to prevent him from investing in people.
-

Potential Questions

- How does prayer help us invest in the people around us?
- How can being steadfast in prayer change our outlook on our current circumstances?
- What does it look like to be steadfast in prayer?
- What does it look like for us to walk in wisdom toward outsiders?
- What does it look like for our words to be “seasoned with salt”?