

PRACTICING THE PRIORITY OF PRAYER WEEKLY PATTERN

Our summer sermon series this year is focused on practicing the priority of prayer in both our personal lives and in our congregational life by using the prayers of the Apostle Paul as examples to follow. The following is a weekly pattern that you can use with the sermon series.

The Weekly Pattern:

1. Listen to the Sunday sermon either in person or online (with the WBC app).
2. At least five days during the week that follows:
 - Meditate on that Scripture text using a simple pattern of repetition.
Read it outloud, “eyes on” the text, at least once.
Review it at least once, “eyes glancing” at the text.
Recite it, as best you can, at least once, with “eyes off” the text.
 - Identify a specific person or persons to pray for that day.
 - Give thanks to God for the faith, hope, and love you see in their lives.
 - Follow that thanksgiving with a prayer based on the Scripture text.

A number of you have expressed a desire for a plan like this to help keep you engaged with Scripture over the summer months. This is the one I intend to follow. I encourage you to adjust it as fits you best and use it also. By the end of the summer, you will have become practiced in a set of Biblical prayer templates and, in the process, will have planted a work of God’s grace into the lives of up to at least 55 different people. Not a bad summer’s work.

Grace on you,
Larry Kroon (with the Sermon Team)
