Romans 8:26-30

1. How hard or easy is it for you to believe that God truly does work through our suffering for good? What reservations, if any, do you have?

2. How do you react to the fact that the Spirit is interceding on your behalf? What emotions does this create for you personally?

3. It was said on Sunday that “what makes life good or bad is not a particular set of circumstances, but how the heart interacts with these circumstances.” Do you agree or disagree with this statement and why?

4. How can you start to reshape your idea of “good” to more reflect God’s definition of good?

5. How do you see this Sunday’s sermon influencing your life personally?
