1. What was one truth or principle that stood out to you most in last Thursday's message?

2. 1 Samuel 13 described David as "a man after God's own heart." What do you think that would look like in today's culture? What would it look like to be a man or woman who has a heart like God's?

3. Which character quality do you admire most in David? Why?

4. David's fall is recorded in 2 Samuel 11. But there are traces of compromise that stem back to 2 Samuel 5. What are some life principles we can draw from that?

5. The story of David teaches us about the seriousness of sin and how some sins can bring about irreversible consequences. But it also teaches us about God's mercy in restoring the wayward sinner. How can a believer keep those two truths in balance?
