Bishop Parnell M. Lovelace, Jr., D.Min., Ph.D.

Daniel 2:1-16

Introduction:

- During the last days it will be apparent that people will become desperate for answers regarding events.
- The servants of the Kingdom of God will be sought out to bring clarity. Despite our own lives being threatened, revelation, and truth will prevail.
- God will preserve his people within the most difficult periods preceding the return of His Son.

“In a fallen world, we must be willing to face the fact that however lovingly we preach the gospel, if a man rejects it he will be miserable. It is dark out there.”

— Francis A. Schaeffer, The God Who Is There

Romans 8:18-28

Four Observations for Consideration (Romans 8:18-28)

1. The answers that people seek can only be found through the revelation given by the Holy Spirit. (Deuteronomy 18:9 and Daniel 2:27)
2. Desperation is never a good place for direction.
3. The threat of death does not negate our Kingdom assignment.
4. The Lord will provide the process of time to gain revelation.
