What are some ways your parents routinely connected with you before they corrected you when you were growing up? How did that make you feel?

What are some ways your parents routinely did not connect with you before correcting you? How did that make you feel?

What are some of the ways you often feel guilt when it comes your ability to connect with your children? If you could magically snap your fingers and be better at connecting with your child(ren) in a certain way, what would that change be and why?
