

Psalm 15- Am I Good Enough for God?

Start Talking. Conversation starter for your group.

- Name three attributes that best describe you.
- If you could change anything about yourself, what would it be and why?
- What is your favorite way to give back or serve and why?

Start Thinking.

- Read Psalm 15. Read it in different versions if possible.
 - How well can you relate to these principles from Psalm 15?
 - Are they realistic and practical for you, for today? Why, or why not?
- How do you feel when a Christian is dishonest or gossips to or about you? Why is this bad?
- Do you agree with this statement, “Everything you say should be true, but not everything that is true should be said.”
 - How do we deal with conflicts if not everything true should be said?
- How can your growth in faith impact your character and then impact your church, and then impact your community?

Start Sharing.

- Which of the stanzas of Psalm 15 strike at you so that you need to deal with it in your own life? When, and how will you?
- Our focus must be on edifying and encouraging. So, what can you and your church do to make this a priority?
- How can you improve your spiritual walk so you can be the person who models Psalm 15?

Start Doing.

- When we praise Christ as Lord, we will model His love to others and live by godly principles to those around us! Such as living for righteousness and truth, exhibiting good ethics, integrity, and honesty, controlling our tongue, being generous and humble, while not being corrupt or manipulative. A real person of faith must follow these principles from a heart and a desire to please God, resulting from the work of the Holy Spirit within. A pretender or false Christian will not exhibit these characteristics either publicly or privately!
