

The Savior Who Completes His Work (John 19:28-30) 3/29/24

The better we grasp what the cross meant to _____, the better we will understand what the cross should mean to _____.

One Powerful Word

The sentence, "It is _____" is but one word in Greek, tetelestai.

"This one word would need all the other words that were ever spoken, or ever can be spoken, to explain it...it is altogether immeasurable. It is high; I cannot attain to it. It is deep; I cannot fathom it." – C. H. Spurgeon

In shouting "tetelestai!" Jesus gave the most _____ cry in all of human history.

Tetelestai (root = teleo) =

One Completed Payment

The little word "it" embodied the whole _____ of our redemption.

Much more than Jesus' _____ had come to an end. His focus was on the work His _____ accomplished.

Notes from Colossians 2:13-15:

Truth be told, we have no idea of the _____ of our sins, for we can neither remember them nor _____ all of them as sinful.

The issue before you is not the _____ of your sin but the _____ of the sacrifice Jesus provided.

One Accomplished Work

If the cry Tetelestai! was the Bondservant _____ to His Master about the status of His assignment, then we can be sure that the Father _____ with the Son that the _____ had been made.

It shows that the whole _____ of our salvation, and all the parts of it, are contained in His _____.

The work has been done, and its _____ continue to the end of time.

It must have been a supreme spiritual joy to our Lord to _____ His work.

Jesus died without a single _____.

Both of the works of creation—that of the _____ creation and that of the new _____ creation—are the products of the work of the Son.

Tetelestai is both the accomplishing of a thing, and the _____ itself.

On the cross, Jesus experienced both the _____ of making an end to sin by suffering all its dreadful _____, and He experienced the ecstasy of being the only One worthy of _____ the work of destroying sin once for all!

May today's remembrance of His cry, "It is finished," drive you ever closer to His cross and its forever completed work of forgiveness!
