Quote

“It’s six in the morning; the family wakes soon. I’ve got to get going – shower for cleansing, cereal for calories, coffee for alertness. As I open the Scriptures, always beginning with a psalm, my heart is made alert to God through praise. Working through my simple Bible reading schedule, I am prompted by the Scriptures to confess sin. The Gospel reading fills me with power. The morning routine of body care sets my body on course for a day of work. The morning routine of spirit care sets my spirit on course for a day of work. Without my shower, cereal and coffee, I stink, I’m weak, and I’m unalert. Without morning prayer my spirit stinks, my spirit is weak, and my spirit is unalert. Clean water washes skin, Holy Spirit washes spirit.”
