SCRIPTURE: EXODUS 13-15

THE WAY TO FREEDOM (EX. 12:37-14:12)

At _____. The point of departure was one of the cities the Israelites had built. A large number of _____ joined in the Exodus (referred to "Aliens" or "Sojourners" among Israel). They departed on the _____ anniversary of Israel's arrival in Egypt. They then stopped at Succoth, Etham, and then Pi-Hahiroth.

THE MIRACULOUS ACT

The celebration and joyfulness of the Israelites was soon turned to _____ as they saw Pharaoh's _____ bearing down on them. God acted and parted the _____. When the people became panicked, because they thought that their freedom was going to be very short lived, they cried out in _____, but God was not taken by _____, this was all according to plan, God is an _____ God, He is the _____!

THE RESULT OF PRAISE

The decisive defeat of Pharaoh turned the _____ of 2:23 into _____. The song of Moses is a litany of praise to the Lord. He is mentioned some _____ times in eighteen verses. _____ times his personal name Yahweh is used, once in the shortened form Yah (v. 2). Once he is called 'adonai, ("master"), and twice 'el, ("mighty One"). The first five verses are a _____ confession of faith, verses 4-12 the song _____ what happened at the Red Sea, verses 13-18 dwells upon the _____ of that happening for the future. _____ is the proper response when such a great miracle occurs.

THE GOSPEL CONNECTION

In the Exodus account we have a template for _____. There is the path to freedom (_____) the miraculous escape (_____), and the result of deliverance (_____). This echoes the Gospel. The _____ is proclaimed to us Acts 4:12, 2 Cor. 6:11, John 14:6, and Rom 3:28. The _____ is disclosed to us – John 1:29, 1 Pet 1:18-19, Gal 3:13. The _____ is described to us in Heb 13:15, the Psalms

CONCLUSION

The entire Exodus account parallels our own lives. We are born under the yoke of the slavery to sin, we are powerless to deliver ourselves, God provides a deliverer in Jesus Christ whose work on the cross of Calvary forgives, redeems, and sets us free – we just need to respond to His love!
