Hebrews 1:14

In my book “Home Is Where the Throne Is,” I testify of sitting on the Father’s lap, looking into His eyes, and seeing innumerable children.

“The love for all and one gave each a superior place against their enemies of evil. By His love, these are His kind. His inheritance. His children.

Here is where I witnessed the makeup of a child of the Father of Lights. This is how I came to understand how resilient they are and why angels would put all of their passion into serving those children. Because of the monumental love that comes from the Creator’s being. Because He has created all that exists and all that brings about each individual child, He glories in His love for all of them—each of them.

Their destinies belong to His great heart. Each destiny belongs to Him. No life on earth can live the total destiny that the Father has given. His destiny is His to give, and each destiny is so expansive that no individual will ever come to the fullness of that loving destiny either on the earth or in their eternal dwelling places. The very nature of the love of the Father for them grows and expands so rapidly that there will never be an end to the new (neos) growth of destiny.

Each child is so intricately woven into all that exists. So passionate is the Father’s love for them that one might take the view that all of creation was for them alone. One might say that they have their Father’s attributes, and His plans are set for their good.”

Jeremiah 29:11 (NASB)

“For I know the plans that I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare and not for calamity to give you a future and a hope.”
