

Discussion Questions

1. The sermon says that true generosity is about the heart, not simply the amount we give. What do you think it means to have a “generous heart,” and how is that different from simply giving money?
2. Jesus highlighted the widow’s sacrifice rather than the size of her gift. What does her story teach us about sacrifice, trust, and what God values when we give?
3. The sermon challenges us to be generous with more than our finances—our time, resources, words, opportunities, and service. Which area of generosity is easiest for you, and which is most difficult? Why?
4. 2 Corinthians 9 says that we should give “not reluctantly or under compulsion” but cheerfully. What are some things that can cause us to give out of obligation rather than genuine generosity? What might help us develop a more joyful attitude toward giving?
5. The sermon says, “Personal generosity makes waves, but collective generosity moves mountains.” What could happen in our church, community, or neighborhoods if we collectively lived with a mindset of generosity? What is one practical example you could see our group doing?
6. The sermon ultimately connects our generosity to God’s generosity toward us through Jesus. How does remembering what God has already given us change the way we think about giving to others? What is one step you could take this week to respond to God’s generosity with generosity of your own?
