WHY DO WE DO THAT?

Theology of Generosity

At the heart of the Bible's posture toward money—and toward everything we possess—is generosity. Generosity is the joyful, open-handed response of a heart transformed by the grace of God. That means giving isn't merely a financial transaction but an act of worship. It is part of offering our whole selves to God "as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to him" (Romans 12:1).

This brief theology of generosity is meant to help us understand giving as a worshipful response to the grace of the gospel. During the next three weeks we will be looking at Five truths from Scripture that frame how we think about generosity.

- 1. God Owns It All
- 2. God Gave It All
- 3. Generosity Flows From The Heart
- 4. Generosity Forms The Heart
- 5. Generosity Joins God's Mission

God is at work in the world - gathering a people, advancing his kingdom, and glorifying his Son. At the center of God's work is the local church: a gathered community of believers, making disciples of Jesus.

When we give to the church, we are not funding a religious organization; we are joining the mission of the risen Christ. While there are many good causes in the world to support, there is only one expression of Christ's body. Generosity is an indispensable aspect of gospel ministry. Our giving supports discipleship, funds mercy ministries, fuels church planting, and frees up laborers for the harvest. Through giving, we participate in making the real Jesus known in our church, our city, and around the world.
