

Introduction: Raising Kids

We are so glad you are here! It takes great courage to choose to lean into equipping yourself so that you can offer your kids a gospel vision for human sexuality. We trust this will be a fruitful time and that God will be glorified. The following is meant to be a guideline for you. If you're going through this with your spouse, a friend, or a small group, feel free to use these questions to shape your conversation. We've also outlined one way you could set up your small group time together; use whatever is helpful and ignore the rest!
