H. C. Leupold

H.C. Leupold, Exposition of Genesis, 1:366.

“For the meaning of the verb form nimrodh, without a doubt, is ‘let us revolt’.”

Dr. Arnold G. Fruchtenbaum

The Book of Genesis, 213

“Verse 9 deals with Nimrod’s relationship to God: He was a mighty hunter before Jehovah. The terminology implies antagonism; antagonism against and in opposition to God.”

The Jerusalem Targum

Jonathan D. Sarfati, The Genesis Account: A Theological, Historical, and Scientific Commentary on Genesis 1–11 (Powder Springs, GA: Creation Book Publishers, 2015), 642.

The Jerusalem Targum paraphrases this passage as follows: “He was powerful in hunting and in wickedness before the Lord for he was a hunter of the sons of men, as he said to them, ‘Depart from the judgment of the Lord and hear the judgement of Nimrod.’ Therefore, it is said as Nimrod the strong one, strong in hunting, and wickedness before the Lord.”

Dr. Arnold G. Fruchtenbaum

The Book of Genesis, 346

“He now became a hunter. In the context of Genesis, this is not a positive but a negative, as already indicated with Nimrod; for he, too, was a mighty hunter before the Lord.”

Dr. Arnold G. Fruchtenbaum

The Book of Genesis, 402

“Esau was a skillful hunter, just as Nimrod was a skillful hunter (10:8–12). In the context of Genesis, being a skillful hunter is not a positive statement, but a negative one. This is important because throughout church history, Jacob has received a lot of bad press. In most sermons, especially in Christian circles, Jacob is painted very negatively, and attributes are ascribed to Jacob that are not true to the Word of God and certainly do not correspond with God’s own evaluation of Jacob.”

Genesis 6:8-9

“⁸ But Noah found favor in the eyes of the LORD. ⁹ These are the records of the generations of Noah. Noah was a righteous man, blameless in his time; Noah walked with God.”

Dr. Arnold G. Fruchtenbaum

The Book of Genesis, 403

“In other words, this word does not mean quiet, but perfect. Why is it not translated that way? The reason is not because it does not make sense in the text, but rather because it does not fit people’s preconceived notions about Jacob. This is the first of several examples where the biblical view of Jacob is opposite from the portrayal of all too many commentators and preachers.”

Dr. Arnold G. Fruchtenbaum

The Book of Genesis, 404

“In the Nuzi Tablets, the birthright was salable; the firstborn had the right to sell his birthright. Esau’s birthright included four elements: physical benefits (Deut. 21:17); spiritual benefits (I Chron. 5:1–2); being in the Messianic line, because this is the birthright of the Abrahamic Covenant; and the possession of the Land. Esau did not care anything about the spiritual benefits. Because the spiritual benefits were in the forefront, he did not particularly care to hang on to his birthright.”

2 Cor. 4:18

¹⁸ while we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal.
