“Second was the clothing: and arrayed him in vestures of fine linen. This, too, is paralleled in the Egyptian accounts. When Rekhmire was appointed vizier, he wrote: ‘I was a noble, the second of the king ... It was the first occasion of my being summoned ... I went forth ... clad in fine linen.’ This was the type of clothing worn by a vizier, a prime minister, someone who was second to the king.”

“Therefore, a total separation of twenty years existed from the time he had last seen members of his family until they were reunited in Egypt. The Hyksos Period, during which Joseph’s story unfolds, was the two-hundred-year period from 1750 until 1550 B.C. The Hyksos were Semitic rulers that conquered Egypt and ruled during the sixteenth and seventeenth dynasties. Thus, the Pharaoh at the time of Joseph was Semitic. This explains how a Semite such as Joseph could rise to the second highest position in Egypt, which had a Hamitic population.”

Outline

- I. Introduction (1)
- II. Japheth's line (2-5)
- III. Ham's Line (6-20)
- IV. Shem's line (21-31)
- V. Conclusion (32)

Geographical Distribution Of The Sons Of Noah

The three sons of Noah migrated to different areas. The Semites occupied the Tigris-Euphrates valley and most of Arabia; the Japhethites moved north, around the Black Sea, and even west to Spain; the Hamites went south into lower Asia Minor, coastal Syria and Palestine, and the Red Sea coast of Arabia, but principally into Africa.

“Mitzraim is a name by which Egypt is frequently called in Scripture, and this man was the father of the Egyptians; and because Egypt was inhabited by a son of Ham, it is sometimes called the land of Ham (Psalm 105:23). The word is of the dual number, and serves to express Egypt, which was divided into two parts, lower and upper Egypt.”

“But when the fullness of the time came, God sent forth His Son, born of a woman, born under the Law.”

Genesis 7:19-23

They rose greatly on the earth, and all the high mountains under the entire heaven were covered...Every living thing that moved on the earth perished—birds, livestock, wild animals, all the creatures that swarm over the earth, and all mankind. Everything on dry land that had the breath of life in its nostrils died. Every living thing on the face of the earth was wiped out; men and animals and the creatures that move along the ground and the birds of the air were wiped from the earth. Only Noah was left, and those with him in the ark.”

H.C. Leupold

Exposition of Genesis (Grand Rapids: Baker, 1942), vol. 1, p. 301-302.

“... ‘all’ the high mountains under all the heavens.’ One of these expressions alone would almost necessitate the impression that the author intends to convey the idea of the absolute universality of the Flood...Yet since ‘all’ is known to be used in a relative sense, the writer removes all ambiguity by adding the phrase ‘under all the heavens.’ A double ‘all’ (kol) cannot allow for so relative a sense. It almost constitutes a Hebrew superlative. So we believe that the text disposes of the question of the universality of the flood. By way of objection to this interpretation, those who believe in a limited flood...urge the . . .
