

EP 1 SHOW ME MY MOUNTAIN

SHOW ME MY MOUNTAIN

Clarity for Your Calling

Week 1 — Prophetic Prayer & Declaration

Chris & Prudence Ministries

OPENING

If you're listening to this, there's a reason.

Not an accident. Not algorithm. Not coincidence.

Something in your spirit has been asking a question. Maybe for months. Maybe for years:

Where do I fit? What am I supposed to be doing? God, what is my assignment?

You've felt it—that sense you were made for something. A lane you're supposed to run in. A mountain you're supposed to take.

But the fog has been thick. The noise has been loud. And somewhere along the way, clarity got buried.

Today, that changes.

This is not a motivational moment. This is a prophetic act. We are going to pray. We are going to declare. And we are going to ask the God who designed you to show you exactly what He made you for.

Open your hands. Open your heart. Let's go to the Father.

PRAYER OF INVITATION

Father, we come to You. Not with demands. Not with formulas. But with hunger.

We are hungry for clarity. Tired of spinning. Tired of guessing.

So we ask You, Holy Spirit—come. Come into this moment. Come into every ear hearing these words.

You are the Spirit of wisdom and revelation. You know the design the Father wrote into each of us before we took our first breath.

Speak. Not in riddles. Not in hints. With the kind of clarity that makes the next step obvious.

We yield to You. We position ourselves to hear.

[Pause — let the music breathe]

BREAKING THE FOG

Now, Lord, we address the fog.

The enemy has worked hard to cloud vision. To make purpose feel out of reach.

But we are not having it anymore.

In the name of Jesus, we break agreement with confusion.

We break agreement with the lie that says, "You'll never figure it out."

We break agreement with the lie that says, "It's too late" and "You missed your window."

We break agreement with the whisper, "Who do you think you are?"

That is not the Father's voice. He doesn't mock. He doesn't confuse. He doesn't hide the ball.

James 1:5 says, "If any of you lacks wisdom, ask God, who gives generously without finding fault."

So we are asking. And we are expecting a generous Father who delights to reveal.

Break the fog now, Lord. Burn it off like morning sun over a valley.

DECLARATION OF IDENTITY

Now hear me—the one listening.

Before you understand your assignment, you need to remember who you are. Because assignment flows from identity. Always.

You are not an accident. The day you were born, the family you were born into—none of it was random. God doesn't waste anything.

You are not disqualified. I don't care what you've done or what's been done to you. Your past does not cancel your purpose. The calling of God is irrevocable.

You are not invisible. The Father sees you—not as a project to fix, but as a son, a daughter, an heir He is genuinely proud of.

So I declare over you:

You are chosen. You are called. You are designed with intention.

It's time to stop apologizing for existing and start walking in the fullness of who God made you to be.

PRAYER FOR ASSIGNMENT

Father, now we get specific.

We are asking for divine assignment. Not a generic sense of purpose—specific, clear, actionable direction.

You are a God of specifics. You gave Noah dimensions. You gave Moses a destination. You gave Nehemiah a wall, a city, a timeline.

So we are asking—what is our wall? What is our city? What is the arena where You've called us to bring Kingdom influence?

Whether it's business, education, government, media, arts, family, or Church—show us our mountain. Answer us today. Not someday. Today.

The Ekklesia is ready to move. We are waiting on commissioning.

DECLARATION OVER CALLING

I declare over you:

The fog is lifting.

2026 is not another year of wandering. It is a year of commissioning.

That thing you thought was just a dream? It's a divine assignment.

That idea you've been sitting on? The Lord is calling it forth.

You will not miss your moment. You will not shrink back from your mountain.

Clarity is coming—in the night hours, in quiet moments, through dreams, through Scripture, through voices you trust.

Psalm 32:8 says, "I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go; I will counsel you with my loving eye on you."

Divine instruction is being released right now. The next step is being illuminated.

PRAYER FOR BOLDNESS

But Lord, we know this: clarity without courage is just a nice idea.

So we ask for boldness. The holy audacity to step into what You're revealing.

Fear has held too many of us hostage. Fear of failure. Fear of looking foolish. Fear of what people will say.

But You did not give us a spirit of fear. You gave us power. Love. A sound mind.

Break the spirit of timidity off Your people.

Raise up the Gideons hiding in the winepress. The Davids stuck in the background. The Esthers prepared for such a time as this.

Give us backbone. Give us fire. Give us the willingness to obey quickly—not perfectly, but immediately.

Make us dangerous again.

CLOSING BLESSING

In the name of Jesus:

May the eyes of your heart be enlightened so you know the hope of your calling.

May clarity settle deep into your spirit.

May you stop striving for a lane that was never yours—and start running in the one you were designed for.

May God give you the right people—those who carry what you need and need what you carry.

May the spirit of confusion be replaced with the spirit of wisdom and revelation.

And may this be the year—the actual year—where you stop asking "What am I supposed to do?" and start doing it.

You were made for this moment. You were born for this assignment.

Now go take your mountain.

In the mighty name of Jesus—

Amen.
