 - Allegory - A figurative sentence or discourse, in which the principal subject is described by another subject resembling it in its properties and circumstances. The principal subject is thus kept out of view, and we are left to collect the intentions of the writer or speaker, by the resemblance of the secondary to the primary subject. Allegory is in words that hieroglyphics are in painting. We have a fine example of an allegory in the eightieth Psalm, in which God's chosen people are represented by a vineyard. The distinction in scripture between a parable and an allegory, is said to be that a parable is a supposed history, and an allegory, a figurative description of real facts. An allegory is called a continued metaphor.
 - Heb. 2:16

 - God's has His purpose with Abraham's seed and nation building while having a greater purpose with man when it comes to their blessing in the earth and when it comes to man's need for righteousness.

- Moses - The Law, Condemnation, Death, Guilt
