

New Hire Announcement

The elders are happy to announce that Bradley Carlock has accepted the position of Communications Director and Office Associate (CDOA). We have been searching for the right person for this job since the position was identified as opening. We have reviewed and talked with others about their interest, but Bradley seems to be the right person for the job. Quoting from his application letter:

My family and I have worshipped with the Starkville church of Christ for nearly 18 years and, as such, I am already familiar with the staff, overseers, and body of the church. I am also knowledgeable of tasks related to the operations of the church office, as I have been employed part-time in the CDOA role for almost a month. This has allowed me to gain a deeper appreciation for the breadth and potential of the position; it has also given me opportunities to identify areas of interest with regard to improving, developing, and implementing effective communication strategies. Additionally, the CDOA position integrates well with my new appointment as a deacon in the area of edification, specifically in the realm of technology.

Bradley will be working full time in this new role. Kim Coble will continue to contribute as her schedule permits. However, Bradley is very open to working with others as he assumes his new role. Please be sure to congratulate Bradley, Amanda, Andrew, and Adrian as Bradley sets out in this new role for our church family.
