1st Corinthians 1:1-3

Paul call's the Christians in the church in Corinth "saints" and says that they've been "sanctified," even though there are many doctrinal and moral corrections needed.

How do you understand "positional holiness" versus "practical holiness"? Was there clarity in the sermon?

Is it helpful to understand key differences between "who I am" versus "what I do"? How does grace cover the gap?

James teaches that we aren't saved BY good works but that we are saved TO good works.

How does that truth shape your understanding of sanctification?

Scriptures teach that our sanctification is past, present, and future. How would you describe that process in your own words? Is it helpful to understand this past, present, and future salvific work of Christ?

Is it encouraging that Paul reminds us of our identity in Christ before offering correction? Why or why not?

Our life is shaped by our worldview. How does the gospel shape your worldview? Which gospel principles are you already aware of that needs shaped in your life?
