Luke 23:50-56

God's providence is found in every moment and in every space in all of history. All things are woven together to accomplish the perfect plan of God, and this is evident in the burial of Christ.

There are many examples of miracles (events that interrupt the natural laws and processes of creation) in Scripture. Can you name a few?

There are also many examples of God using the free agents of creation to weave together His perfect plan without interrupting natural laws and processes. Can you name a few examples from Scripture? Can you identify any that you've witnessed in your own life?

We are limited in our knowledge. We can see what's happening, or what has happened. It's impossible to see how all things are being used behind the scenes by God for His purposes.

Have you been able to identify elements of your life that made you question God's plan, only to see it clearly later?

Do you see how God providentially ties all things together for His greater, sovereign plan?

Do you find it difficult to reconcile the reality of God's providence? Consider John Piper's book "Providence" for further study.
