GIVING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Christmas Decorating

Today is Christmas decorating day! Make plans to grab lunch with another church family and return to the building to help us fluff trees, hang garland, and untangle lights! Hot chocolate and Christmas cookies will be on hand!

Christ The King Sunday

Next Sunday is Christ the King Sunday, the final Sunday of the liturgical calendar. Join us as we celebrate the kingship of Christ in His current and future reign.

Thanksgiving Dinner

Are you alone for Thanksgiving? We host a dinner at the church for anybody that can use a family to be with on Thanksgiving. Dinner is complete with turkey and all of the trimmings! Football will be on the tv and board games on the table. See Chris or Sue Cavaliere if you'd like to learn more.

LAST WEEK'S GIVING TOTAL:

$4,807.96

You can give anytime at our giving station in the lobby or online at: TheValleyChurch.cc

1ST CORINTHIANS

1st Corinthians 13:8-13

God is love, and empowers us to love others because of the love that He's given us. More than anything else that you can offer anybody, love is the most important.

Paul says that hope and faith will not last for eternity, but love does. Why is this? What does hope and faith offer now that isn't needed in eternity?

Why does love seem to be a challenging virtue to demonstrate? How does your own testimony of faith motivate you to love others who may not seem lovable?

Why is it important for Paul to compare the non-eternal gifts of the Spirit and "lesser" virtues to the eternal virtue of love? How does this measure up to Jesus' instructions on the greatest commandment?

Love is an emotion, but it's not only an emotion. Love is expressed in serving, but it isn't only expressed in serving.

How can it be true that "love never ends" when my abilities and desires to love sometimes end?

Is love a supernatural gift? Are we supernaturally empowered to love?

Love is the only thing we take with us to eternity. Does this motivate you to love well today? Does it allow you to appreciate the great measure of love that Christ has given you?
