1. What does it mean for Christians to approach God?
2. Where does Scripture command us to approach and worship God?
3. Why is it significant that a central tabernacle in which God is to be worshiped no longer remains? What does this mean for individual Christians and for the corporate gathering of Christians in the local church?
4. Look at verses 2–5 again. To what deeper realities do each of these objects in the tabernacle point? What do they tell us about God, the new covenant, Jesus Christ, and ourselves?
5. What does it mean that Christ's work on the cross eliminates the division between the most holy place and the holy place? Why does this matter for Christians?
