

All the believers were united in heart and mind. And they felt that what they owned was not their own, so they shared everything they had.

The apostles testified powerfully to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and God's great blessing was upon them all.

There were no needy people among them, because those who owned land or houses would sell them and bring the money to the apostles to give to those in need.

For instance, there was Joseph, the one the apostles nicknamed Barnabas (which means "Son of Encouragement"). He was from the tribe of Levi and came from the island of Cyprus.

He sold a field he owned and brought the money to the apostles.

The early church had a new perspective.

The Good News of Jesus changed everything.

Those who've gone to space experience the OVERVIEW EFFECT.

This gives you the sense of...

- interconnectedness.
- insignificance of self.
- social responsibility.

"These features suggest it can instigate behavioral change..."

-- A. Nezami, University of London

Those who believed the Good News were united in heart and mind.

Are you navel gazing or gospel gazing?

Let the good news stick in your soul.
