

Jesus said to the crowd...
"Don't suppose for a minute that I have come to demolish God's law or the Prophets. I'm here to complete them...
Whoever relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches others to do the same will be called the least in the Kingdom of Heaven...
Unless you are more righteous than the religious elite, you will never enter the Kingdom of Heaven...
The law says to not commit murder or adultery or revenge, but even if you imagine committing them in your mind, it's the same as committing them in reality...
I say to you to love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you. It's easy to love those who love you.
I'm calling you to love those who don't love you so that you can be true children of God."

 The laws were originally written on stone.

It feels impossible to keep all of these commands.

Without Jesus, it is. He came to do what we couldn't.

We tend to only focus on the BIG SINS.

Jesus says don't get all self-righteous just yet.

What's going on in your heart?

The commandment to love others including your enemies is the most ignored of all the commandments.

"I will write My law on your hearts so that you will reflect My love to the world."
- Jesus

"All the commands, laws and righteousness that you couldn't achieve...
I came to do on your behalf."

"I've come for your heart."
