We can have hope
because of our faithful confidence in God's providence.

A wooden cross stands in a field of golden wheat under a clear blue sky. The cross is made of two weathered wooden beams. The wheat is tall and golden, filling the foreground. In the background, there is a line of green trees under a bright blue sky with a few small white clouds.

Providence is God's activity throughout history in providing for the needs of human beings, especially those who follow him in faith in order to accomplish His purposes.

A wooden cross stands in a field of golden wheat under a clear blue sky. The cross is made of two weathered wooden beams. The wheat is tall and dense, filling the foreground. In the background, a line of green trees is visible on the horizon. The sky is a solid, clear blue with a few small, wispy clouds near the horizon.

Ruth is an example of what it means to work in God's providence.

A rustic wooden cross stands in a field of tall, golden wheat. The cross is made of two weathered wooden beams. The background shows a clear blue sky with a few wispy clouds and a distant line of green trees on the horizon.

Just because there are times that we do not understand the plans of God does not mean that there should be times when we fail to trust the provisions of God.

Are we being good stewards of the provision of God's grace by working faithfully?
