

Missions NAMB to Georgia

While the Annie Armstrong Offering emphasis has ended, we continue to pray for those who are serving Christ in North America. This week we meet Woongje and Injoo Chun. They are ethnic Koreans who are our missionaries in Duluth, Ga.

Now, Duluth is in Gwinnett County, northeast of Atlanta. Why would we have Korean-speaking missionaries there?

It's because nearly a third of all Koreans in Georgia live there — more than 100,000 first- and second-generation Koreans. Korea-themed restaurants, retail shops, and markets are prominent here. And we want all those Koreans to hear the gospel in their own language so they can respond.

Woongje is pastor of Duluth Korean Baptist Church in Duluth. To engage those Koreans with the good news, he leads an evangelism team to the Korean market every Tuesday and Thursday. Many young Koreans hear and respond to the gospel each week during these efforts.

Through our church's Cooperative Program giving, our church is helping support the ministry of Woongje and Injoo as they serve there in Duluth.

Prayer Concerns from the Congregation

Government

Pray that God would guide the men and women in the US Department of Commerce in their work with businesses, universities, communities, and the nation's workers to promote job creation, economic growth, sustainable development, and improved standards of living for Americans. Pray that these leaders come to know Christ and not look to their own interests, but to the interests of others (Philippians 2:4).

Colossians 3:18-4:1

Colossians: In Christ Alone

Our faith in Christ transforms how we navigate our relationships in marriage, family, and work. By understanding our identities in Christ and submitting to His lordship, we can serve one another with love and integrity.

Introduction

1. Serving Christ in Marriage

2. Serving Christ in Families

3. Serving Christ in Employment
