

Cori Jett

Minister, Encourager, and Servant of Christ

I am a devoted follower of Jesus and a proud mother of five. My journey has been marked by deep loss and incredible resilience. I was widowed while pregnant with my fifth child. In December 2016, I lost my brother to Hodgkin's lymphoma. In 2017, I faced another trial when I was diagnosed with breast cancer. Through every hardship, I have experienced the undeniable goodness and faithfulness of God.

I graduated from Central Bible College with a heart for ministry and a passion for serving and loving people. I believe that even in life's darkest moments, God's light shines the brightest. Whether I am preaching, encouraging others, or walking alongside those in need, my desire is to share the hope, healing, and love of Jesus Christ.

Alongside ministry, I am also a dedicated real estate agent, helping families find homes where they can build memories and experience community. No matter where God places me, my mission remains the same—to serve, to love, and to point others to His unfailing goodness.

B. Talk about relationships with your spouse or best friend. You have to spend time with them to TRUST THEM!

10) CALL TO ACTION: "What Will You Do With Your Pain?"

Today, you've heard a testimony of loss, healing, and purpose—but this isn't just about my story. It's about what God wants to do in yours.

- Are you tired of carrying it all alone?
- Are you stuck in survival mode?
- Have you let the enemy rent space in your head and heart for too long?

You don't have to stay there.

God is still in the business of turning pain into purpose, tragedy into triumph, and mourning into joy.

Ask yourself:

- Am I letting Jesus have all of me—even the broken parts?
- Am I renewing my mind in His Word?
- Am I walking in the healing and abundant life He died to give me?

11) If you're ready to let go of the weight, to take the next step toward healing, to stop surviving and start living—come to the altar. Come to Jesus.

He died to redeem it.
