KEY VERSE

ROMANS 14:19
So then we pursue the things which make for peace and the building up of one another.

OUTLINE

I. Pursue peace and build one another up (v. 19). Use your choices to strengthen fellow believers, not to win arguments or insist on your rights.

II. Do not let personal freedom harm another believer (vv. 20–21). Set aside even a permissible choice if it causes someone else to stumble or damages God's work in that person.

III. Act from faith and a clear conscience before God (vv. 22–23). Live out what you believe is right with faith; acting against your conscience is sin.

Believers should show grace to one another in matters of conscience, avoid judging or pressuring each other, and live to honor the Lord. As Paul says, "So then we pursue the things which make for peace and the building up of one another." (Romans 14:19, NASB).
