The First Mission Trip

Introduction

1. The world is becoming more evil by the day and cannot be left to its own.
2. 2 Tim 3:1-2 The influence of social media is very strong, so we cannot look away and say, "It doesn't concern me."
3. 3. Amos 5:10–13 reminds us there is a time to speak up and a time to be quiet.

I. The Heart of the First Mission Trip (Read Genesis 3:8-9)

QARA in Hebrews - cried out with a passionate vocal invitation

1. In Genesis, Adam and Eve hid behind the trees of the garden to mask their shame. Today, people around us are hiding in plain sight. What do modern "hiding places" look like? How do people around you try to camouflage their brokenness?
2. God takes the absolute initiative to make contact with sinners (He called Adam even before Adam: Missions is about God reaching out to man first). When was the last time you felt a holy tug to break the comfort of silence and initiate a spiritual conversation or offer prayer to someone who was clearly far from God? What held you back, or what gave you the courage to do it?

B. Read 2 Corinthians 5:19–20

1. When you look at your regular weekly routine (at your office, your school, your community, or with your neighbors), do you view yourself as a casual citizen or as Christ Ambassador representative of a Seeking King? How would seeing yourself as Christ Ambassador affect how you view the people around you?
2. Who is someone in your immediate circle (a coworker, classmate, or family member or a people group that you may have prejudice against) who seems to "have it all together" on the outside, but if you look closer, you can see signs that they are shivering in the dark shadows of anxiety, guilt, or meaninglessness? How can you purposefully step into their space this week?

II. The Hope of the First Mission God is a lavish God.

Ayekah "Where are you?" in Hebrews — it is the sound of a heartbroken Father weeping for His broken child. (Gen 3:9)

1. When we look at our broken culture, secular media, or people who actively live in lifestyles contrary to scripture, our default human reflex is often anger, political frustration, or harsh judgment. How does looking through the lens of Ayekah transform our posture? What does it look like practically to view a rebellious world with divine grief rather than religious outrage?
2. Choose one unreached people group or Missions Associate Partner that you and your cell group will commit yourselves to pray for regularly or financially support mission projects / missions support that God has place on your heart. (discuss in your smaller groups)
