The Broken Fence

Big Idea

When we remove God's boundaries, we don't become more free - we become more vulnerable.

Psalm 119:45, Proverbs 25:28, Judges 21:25

Psalm 119:45

"I will walk in freedom, for I have devoted myself to your commandments."

Removing God's boundaries feels like freedom (but it's actually bondage).

The lie: If I don't limit myself, I'll live a fuller life.

No self-control means the wrong “king” is in charge.

Proverbs 25:28

“A person without self-control is like a city with broken-down walls.”

Right in your own eyes destroys stability and identity.

Judges 21:25

“In those days Israel had no king; all the people did whatever seemed right in their own eyes.”

God’s boundaries aren’t there to restrict your freedom and joy - they’re there to protect your life.

Sermon Applications

Choose one or both of the following applications to put into practice this week.

1. Identify a Broken Wall (Proverbs 25:28)

Prayerfully ask God to show you one area of your life:

- where self-control has broken down.
- where a boundary has been removed or has eroded - not by someone else, but quietly and by your own slow drift.

Bring it before God in honest confession and ask for His help in rebuilding that wall.

2. Audit Your Standard (Judges 21:25)

Examine one belief, habit, or decision in your life and honestly ask: "Am I basing this on what God says, or on what feels right to me?" If it is the latter, spend time in Scripture this week seeking God's actual standard on that issue.

Key Verse

*I will walk in freedom,
for I have devoted myself
to your commandments.
