

Chapter 10: The Good Shepherd and the Sheep

- In chapter 10, Jesus presents himself as the Good Shepherd. What does this metaphor convey about Jesus' care for his followers and their relationship with him?
- The people are divided in their response to Jesus' claims in this chapter (10:19-21). What factors contribute to this division, and how does it parallel the broader themes of belief and unbelief in the Gospel of John?
