Sermon: Leaving a Legacy

Date: Sunday, May 31, 2026

1. Ryan defined legacy as keeping the knowledge of God alive for the next generation. Why is it essential that the "generation that hears" also becomes the "generation that shares"?
2. Ryan mentioned that a legacy of money or buildings can be lost or eroded, but a vibrant faith in Jesus cannot. In what ways are we tempted to focus on a material legacy over a gospel one?
3. Ryan states that his goal is for people to remember Jesus, even if he and his wife are forgotten entirely. How does this perspective change the way we think about "leaving our mark" on the world?
