

“Gospel on the Move” - Acts 17:1-15

After Paul's conversion, he had one single ambition and focus of explaining the way of salvation in Christ to lost people. He was determined and driven to accomplish this mission, with the conviction that he would never be ashamed of spending his life in this way. He knew the risks that were involved, yet he refused to play it safe or regard the challenges as too extreme. His conviction was to go where God sent him, to be obedient in doing the work of an evangelist, to preach Christ trusting that God would save some, because that was God's promise.

Spiritual fruit can only be born through consistent obedience. If you cultivate a heart of faithfulness, you will see God bless the outcome, and grow the seeds you have planted so that they bear fruit unto eternal life.

Reflection Questions:

- 1) How much do you value the gospel in your own life?

- 2) How much do you value the soul? Do you care about people's souls when they die? (Consider how this is reflected in your motivations and focus for each day).

- 3) What are you willing to do for the sake of knowing Christ and making Him known to others?

- 4) Are there any idols of comfort, idols of money, idols of relationships that you need to surrender before God and repent of in order to have an undivided devotion to Christ?
