

1 CORINTHIANS

11 DANGERS FOR EVERY CHRISTIAN

Today, we continue our series through 1 Corinthians called 11 Dangers for Every Christian. In this passage, Paul addresses sexual sin with unusual clarity because the Corinthian church had begun tolerating behavior that was inconsistent with their new identity in Christ. As we study these verses, we will consider why sexual sin is so destructive, how believers should respond to sin in one another's lives, and what it means to honor God with our bodies because we belong to Him.

Key Passage: 1 Corinthians 5:1–13; 6:18–20

Discussion Questions:

1. Read 1 Corinthians 5:1–2. What seems to concern Paul about the Corinthian church in addition to the man's sexual sin?
2. What does Paul's command that the Corinthians "mourn" teach us about how we should view sin?
3. Read 1 Corinthians 5:3–5. What appears to be the ultimate goal of Paul's severe response to this man?
4. Read 1 Corinthians 5:6–8. What does the illustration of leaven teach us about tolerated sin?
5. What does Paul mean when he says, "Christ, our Passover lamb, has been sacrificed"?
6. Read 1 Corinthians 5:9–13. What distinction does Paul make between Christians and non-Christians?
7. What responsibility do Christians have toward other believers who are caught in sin?
8. Read 1 Corinthians 6:18. What command does Paul give regarding sexual immorality?
9. According to 1 Corinthians 6:19–20, why does what we do with our bodies matter to God?
10. What does it look like to "glorify God in your body"?
