

January 11, 2026 at 11:15 AM

“Blessed” means fortunate, supremely blest, well off, happy.

“Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted.” Matthew 5:4

January 11, 2026 at 11:18 AM

To mourn is to outwardly express the deep grief and sorrow inside of you.

If we were to write a beatitude, we would say “blessed are the tough...” However Christ writes, “blessed are those who mourn.”

Blessed are you when you are overcome with grief and when you cry.

This doesn't mean Jesus is not tough- He is strong and tender.

January 11, 2026 at 11:20 AM

“Jesus wept.” John 11:35

Jesus knew He would raise Lazarus from the dead, but He was moved with compassion by those mourning around Him, and wept. The people saw and said, “see how He loved him.” How much more should we look to the Cross and say, “see how He loves us!”

“Greater love has no one than this, than to lay down one’s life for his friends.” John 15:13

January 11, 2026 at 11:23 AM

The ones who mourn are the ones who are broken.

Brokenness is an admittance that I am not okay without God. It is realizing that the sin we have committed has broken the heart of God, and the sin we see in the world has broken the heart of God.

When we come before God broken- He draws near, and comforts us.

January 11, 2026 at 11:25 AM

Comfort means to bring strength to you; to encourage you.

You cannot be strengthened and encouraged if you are not first broken.

We wonder why we don't feel anything, why we don't feel God, it is because we are not broken.

Behind every godly sorrowful tear, there is comfort.

*do not lose your tears.

