IV. Faith Provides _____

Faith that finds its _____ place in God, clarifies that responding to God by faith is to live life at its fullest and to accomplish the seemingly impossible.

Conclusion: By faith, Moses pursued God’s will for his life which was in Chuck Swindoll’s words:

“A divine call to assume a crucial role in the destination of men and nations. He may have been reluctant. He may have been frightened. He...may have been filled with self-doubt. But in the end, he yielded.”

By this same faith and with the same clarification of faith-filled people, we can do the same. We can yield to God’s will.

Our resume will not be identical to Moses’, but we can have it as our testimony that “by faith” we pleased God in the way that we lived out His will and plan for our lives.
