

In today's passage, Paul reminds us that God's greatest treasure is often carried in ordinary, imperfect vessels. We may be cracked, pressured, discouraged, and even knocked down, but through Christ we are never crushed or abandoned. The power is not in us—it is in God working through us.

There is a spiritual force in this world that _____ people to the _____.

There is a _____ to understanding who Jesus is and what he has to offer.

God didn't give us the treasure of the gospel so that we would keep it _____, he gave it to us so that we might _____ it with others.

God is with us even when things are _____.

Paul was so convinced his message was _____ and _____ by others that he would not quit.

A sense of _____ for other people should _____ us to never quit.
