

Genesis tells us that God fashioned us from the dust of the world, and it wasn't until He breathed His breath of life into us that we became a living being. God's words and actions have always moved in the trajectory of life. So, when sin was introduced into the world, death was invited into the story. The implications of death surround us daily—from hospitals, to headstones, to highway memorials, we are surrounded by the curse of sin. Yet, Jesus came to show us a life free from the sting of death.
