A Place Where Privilege Brings Responsibility Jesus: Head of the Church – Part 5 Luke 14:25-35

Having privileges always brings along with it certain responsibilities. That's true if you have the privilege of owning a pet, driving a car, being in a position of leadership, or just being a citizen of this country. The church is to be a place where we are thankful for the privilege of being a growing community in Jesus Christ, but we also are to be well aware of the big responsibilities of being a part of that community of believers. Let's look at three of those responsibilities that Jesus discusses in Luke 14.

I. _____ correctly. (vv. 25-26)

A. It seems cold-hearted for Jesus to say we should _____ our family, friends, and our own life.

B. We should love our _____; but we need to love the _____ more.

II. _____ completely. (vv. 27-33)

A. We are to carry the _____.

B. We must count the _____.

III. _____ consistently. (vv. 34-35)

A. Jesus says we are grains of salt, and we should _____ the world.

B. The church is to be a place where Christians take their responsibilities _____ and live their lives _____. (1 Peter 2:12)
