by Carey Hardy

The heart is where change needs to happen

- How are you building relationships with your children? Brainstorm ways to get to know each of your children better and come up with an action plan!
- What are some ways you / your spouse respond to your kids that is self-serving?
- What are the areas you notice where you struggle in your parenting?
- Take a look at your communication as a family. Can you begin to identify any destructive patterns of communication in your home?
- Go back to your discipline structure from last week, how should the heart diagram inform or influence your discipline structure?
- Write out the gospel with scripture references.
