

So how do we walk this out this week? Jesus gave us the roadmap in verse 5.

Remember...Repent...Return.

Remember...

Sometime this week, sit down and write out the story of when you first met Jesus. What was your life like? What did He rescue you from? What did that first season of prayer and worship feel like?

Repent...

Name it honestly. Where has religious duty replaced relationship? Where have you been serving Jesus while quietly drifting from Jesus?

Return...

Do the things you did at first. What did you do when you first fell in love with Jesus? Did you sing worship songs in the car with tears in your eyes? Did you take long walks and just talk to Him? Did you open the Word not to win an argument but to hear His voice?

Here is your assignment.

Schedule a fifteen minute first love appointment with Jesus this week. Put it in your phone. No prayer list. No request. No study agenda. Just sit in His presence, remember the grace that saved you, and enjoy Him. And when you get up from that chair, do one simple act of love for Him that costs you something, because love for the unseen Jesus is proven in visible obedience.
