Discussion Questions With Emily LeVault

How well do you feel you understand the Creation-Fall narrative? How do you think our understanding of creation affects our view of human brokenness and sin in the world and in our own lives?

Reading Ephesians 1:9-10 we see that God's plan involves uniting all things in Christ. Do you think this is possible now or is this more of a "long term plan"? Which timeframe makes you most uncomfortable? Living with things the way they are until we see heaven or working through this unification while still on earth?

Colossians 1:15-20 speaks of Christ's role in reconciliation. In what areas of your life or community do you see a need for restoration? How can the Gospel message bring hope to those situations? How is reconciliation different from forgiveness?

Reflect on Brian's question, "If Jesus is King over _____, how should I live?" In what area of your life do you hit a wall (resistance, fear, "keep that to yourself Jesus") when you hear this statement? Which place in your life feels most resistant to this concept?
